On next Thursday evening. December 48, the Dempsey-Burke Pugilistic combination will appear at the exposition nnnex, under the management of Charles E. Davis. The two men-Jack Dempsey, the invincible middle-weight champion of the world and Jack Burke, the "Irish Lad," whom Sultivan failed to knock out in five rounds-will meet each other in a contest of six rounds, with soft gloves and under Queensbury rules. The merits of both men are well known, and they are so evenly matched that their meeting here cannot fall to be an interesting one to all lovers of the manly art. Charles . Davis offers $100 to any person that Burke or Dempsey cannot stop in five rounds, Queensbury rules, small, soft gioves, Jack Keenan, champion middle-weight of New York City, and Denny Costigan, of Providence, R. I.,—two noted boxers, are with the champions and will appear in a short bout. Mr. P. I. It will thus be seen that a splendid programme of sport is provided for the Dempsey's Police Gazette dia mond belt, valued at $1,000, and Mr. Fal-lon's medal and cup, which he presents on Thursday evening, will be on exhibi-tion on Wednesday at Collins, Gordon & Kay's, 1312 Douglas street.

MORE SCHOOL ROOM. Three New Brick Buildings Proposed to be Erected.

As has been briefly mentioned in the BEE the board of education has taken steps to secure plans and specifications for three new brick school houses to be built, if possible, the coming year. The first of these is an additional building to be erected on the high school grounds, to be a twelve or sixteen room brick, the cost of which shall not exceed $35,000. Members of the board claim that such a building is an imperative necessity to relieve the over-crowded condition of the high school building. There are now 350 students in the high school department with seven grades additional that are accommodated in the high school building, making a total of about 900 students who are accommodated in the building. The growth of the high school is very marked and is forcing the lower grades out of the building. There are now four attic rooms occupied in the building, and until recently a school has been taught in the basement. The lower grades that can not be accommodated in the building are compelled to go to either the Farnam Dodge street school, both of which, in addition to being out of the way for pupils living in the vicinity of the high school, are also well filled.

The school proposed to be erected at the corner of Twenty-eighth and Webster streets is a new one and is needed to accommodate the pupils living in Nelson's addition and in the territory lying west of Creighton college and south of Cuming street. It is proposed to erect a twelve room building in this location to cost not more than $25,000.

The eight room building, to cost $20, which it is proposed to be erected at the corner of Izara and Twentieth streets, is to relieve the overcrowded condition of the Lard street school if not to abandon it entirely. The building now used is on the railroad track and in an undesirable location for a school building. The school is also sadly in nced of repairs, and in the opinion of some of the members of the board, should be sold for business property and the proceeds expended in the purchase of property in a more desirable location.

The secretary of the board has been authorize and instructed to advertise for plans for the buildings above mentioned. A prize of $2.0 for the best, $150 for the second and $75 for the third plan will be paid by the board for accepted plans for the proposed buildings. The question of making a levy for the proposed improve-ments will be submitted to a vote of the people at the spring election.

THE GODMAN PACKING COMPANY. A New Enterprise That is About Ready for Business.

The building that the Godman Packing company are creeting is nearing completion. It is located on the bottom lands at the foot of Grace street, or at what would be the corner of Eleventh and Grace streets, if Eleventh street were opened up that far. The building may be briefly described as a four-story frame structure, 80x100 feet, painted a bright red color on the outside, which makes it a very conspicuous object from the surrounding bluffs. It is without doubt one of the best built structures in the city, and is one of the most complete houses of the kind in the United States It is built on a solid stone foundation, smooth and perfect in every respect, and in marked contrast to the average slipshed mason work keen in the majority of the foundations in this city. As it is very essential to keep out the heat of summer and to preserve an even temperature during all seasons, unusual pains have been taken in the construction of the whole building. Four thicknesses of the best felt paper alternate with the same number of inch pine boards, besides the air spaces in the construction of the walls. The main part of the building is in one sense an immense lee box, the ice being stored in the contef in such a manner as to throw cold air in every direction and so as to allow of the temperature being regulated. The floors are filled between with four es of saw dust to keep out the heat and the doors are made on the same prin ciple as a safe door, and are titted to gether so closely that not a breath of air can get through. The windows are made solid and are double. There is not a poor joint or an unwork-manlike piece of work in the whole building. The basement has a cement floor and will be used as a store room and pickling room. The vats and pick-ling jubs will be located on the first door. On each side of the building there is a smoke bouse 16x24 feet that will hold nine tiers of meat one above the other. The smoke houses have iron floors so as to provide against any accidents from fire. The smoke will be produced by the barning of green shellbark hickory wood. The house will have a capacity for handling 800 hogs per day. It is extended that its house will be in operation by the last of the month. They will buy meats in car lots already dressed hams, bacon, etc., and will cure and pickle them ready for the market. T. A Home Play.

"An American Patrician's Daughter" was played at the *opera house Saturday night before an audience composed mainly of friends of Mr. Emil Geisler, the author of the piece. The proceeds were intended for the benefit of this gen-tleman, who has been sick for some

In brief, the story is that of a banker's daughter, who, greatly against her father's wish, marries a Japanese prince Her married life is one of misery, occasioned by the inattention, neglect and cruelty of her spouse. She is driven from her home, and in desperation she is followed by her husband, who, failing to find her, commits suicide. The daughter then returns to her home, but her father in the meantime has died. His death is bemoaned by the unfortunate woman, who regrets too late that she had disregarded her father's wishes in the selection of a husband. She finally overcomes the grief and marries an old lover, when a twin brother of her father arrives from Mexico and settles a fabulous fortune upon the newlymarried pair.

The selection of a Japanese as the hus band of the heroine is rather repugnant to American tastes in every day life. So much so, indeed, that it is difficult to much so, indeed, that it is difficult to understand why the same should be represented on the stage. In the case of the play in question, it detracted from rather than added to the interest of the piece. The self-will of an infatuated woman could just as well have been illustrated by her selection of a Caucasian brute as it was in that of the affect of the piece. it was in that of the coffee-colored gen-tleman. Besides this the place possesses many incongruities, and the language in certain instances is far from dignitied. The leading male character was assumed by Mr. Dehnicke, who interpreted it with eat deal of interest and intelligence Mrs. Geisler played the daughter. She is an amateur, and though her action was devoid of the grace and training generally supposed to be a desideratum of actresses, she delivered her lines in a natural and effective manner, especially the lament over the grave of her father. Mr. Teichman played the Banker Miller like a full fledged actor, as if indeed he were intended by nature to tread the boards. Mr. Stoccker had an important part in the old time lover and later husband of the heroine, and acquitted himself very satisfactorily. He would make an excellent amateur actor.

"CALLED BACK." Mr. Joseph Grismer and Mrs. Phoebe Davies make their first appearance this evening at Boyd's opera house, presenting for the first time in this city the pow-erful drama of "Called Back," a drama-tization by Mr. Grismer of Hugh Conway's wonderful romance of that name, and one of the most extensively novels written for years. "Called Back" is said to be one of the most interesting plays on the stage to-day, meeting with the greatest success wherever presented The version as dramatized by Mr. Gris mer is said by those who have seen both to far excel in interest that brought out some time since by the Union Square, Mr. Grismer's drama following the story closely in all details, making it a strong and most compact drama, full of thrilling and exciting situations. Mr. Grismer and Miss Davies, although strangers in Omaha, are great favorites on the Pacific coast, where they have been touring for the past four seasons, and to which point Mr. Grismer is now returning after a most successful season in the eastern and northern states with "Called Back." The company in support is said to be a very strong one, "Called Back" will be given this evening, Tues-day and Wednesday evenings.

Two dozen hottles of Warner's safe cure restored his liver to health and cured his ailment. His daughter was very ill of an obstinate disorder, which the best physicians failed to relieve. She had also ratistation of the heart, intense palus in the head, ner-yous dyspepsia, and all her vital organs were involved. By three months faith-ful home treatment with Warner's sate cure alone, she was fully restored to health. That was two years ago. The cure was permanent. Col. The committee of the bar appointed to prepare a bill for the increase of judicial facilities in this district will meet at the court house at 10 o'clock to-day. It is understood that a majority of the members of the committee are in favor of still more radical changes than were recommended at the first meeting of the attorneys of the district. It is proposed now to limit the jurisdiction of the county court to probate business entirely and to limit the jurisdiction of the justice courts, in civil matters, to cases involving $100 and less.
